

The ultimate in infant eye protection.

February 9, 2009

Re: Compliance with CPSIA

Dear Baby Banz Customers,

The Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act (CPSIA) was passed by congress in August 2008. Effective February 10th 2009 the CPSIA requires manufacturers and importers of all products intended for use by children ages 12 and under meet certain standards for lead, flammability and phthalates.

However, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission voted unanimously (2-0) to issue a one year stay of enforcement for certain testing and certification requirements for manufacturers and importers of regulated products, including products intended for children 12 years old and younger.

You can access the CPSC news release at <http://www.cpsc.gov/cpsc/pub/prerel/prhtml09/09120.html>

Baby Banz, Inc, which began manufacturing in 2001, has always maintained a reasonable testing program and is in possession of regular testing reports from all of our suppliers to ensure that the components in all Baby Banz products, both current and in production, are within lead substrate and phthalate safety levels for current, and August 2008 standards. You can rest assured that Baby Banz, Inc. Products in your inventory are well below the lead limits established in the CPSIA.

No further certification or testing documents for our products is necessary per the federal government's new guidelines.

If you have specific queries, contact us at shari@babybanz.com.

Thank you.

Baby Banz, Inc.

Protect your baby's eyes from harmful U.V. rays.